THE FORELOOK OF TIME.

Taking time by the forelook is an old saying that has a meaning when applied to acts that have reference to the future, more particularly may it be said to have a marked meaning when future events are sought to be directed to a given end, or for the accomplishment of a purpose connected with affairs in the future, in which those who make the plans, take or have a personal interest.

Taking time by the forelook includes observation of times present connected with probable future results. If the probabilities in the natural course of events are likely to be determined against the wishes of those who are observing the trend of public thought or who are taking notes of public action,—taking time by the forelook tends to cause a belief, that it is the judgment of observers that public thought and public action demands directing from the natural course it is pursuing.

The causes operating upon the public mind which have a natural tendency to direct thought and action in a certain way, must be overcome in the judgment of those who are interested in having a change made, and in order to make the change time will be required to apply the necessary means to make the change, hence, the saying, taking time by the forelook. Should it be that reports are to be relied upon, there was a very interesting meeting at the White House on or about the 25th of the month present, which has in it a very plain illustration of taking time by the forelook.

The Ohio crowd as they are known and described by politicians from other States had a meeting at the White House to determine upon means to be applied to Ohio that will be necessary to insure continued control of the State at its next general election. Those present at the meeting were President McKinley, Hanna, Grosvenor, Senator Foraker and Representative Dick.

Foraker not being of the number who occupy in the inner political sanctum when men and measures are discussed, was admitted to the floor of the outer ante-room, where he was informed that his return to the United States Senate would not be opposed. Having received such pleasant information he was pleased to take his leave—Hanna leading the way—as it became a gentlemanly do under the circumstances.

When the profane Foraker had retired Hanna returned to the inner sanctum, where the work required to hold the State subject to the will of McKinley, Hanna and Grosvenor was arranged and the manner of its application agreed upon, which includes a jealous distribution by President McKinley of patronage to perpetuate his control over politics in Ohio. It is believed that control of the State will enable McKinley and the Ohio crowd to control the nomination and policy of the next administration, which may include a known plan among Republicans to break the rule respecting a third term by nominating McKinley in 1904.

When the Ohio situation had been disposed of, with Foraker present in the outer ante-room, and Senator Hanna had returned to the President's office or inner sanctum, the door was closed and a double guard placed at the outer door, when it was made known that a few offices in Ohio were in a position to be filled by McKinley's warm friends, and that other offices were or would be vacant in the near future in other States which could be supplied by men from Ohio, who were known to be positive friends of the President.

It is a part of the program agreed on to redistrict Ohio and thereby secure seventeen Republican Congressmen out of twenty-one, which will largely aid in securing control by the political machine in the next national convention. There must be some cause unknown to the general public which demands early and positive attention from the President and Senator Hanna to politics in Ohio.

Lonely Homes

A home is never complete without children. Yet many homes are childless. Many wives are desolate for the lack of a child to love. Their lives are aimless—void of the high motives of motherhood. While barrenness is causing incalculable sadness and sorrow, it exists in most cases on account of some little female trouble, which Wine of Cardui would speedily set right. This pure Wine regulates the disordered female organs by building up the worn out nerves and regulating the menstrual flow. It restores the fallen womb to its proper place. By strengthening the generative organs, it makes pregnancy possible where barrenness exists. You can depend on

WINE OF CARDUI

Suffering women all over the land have been depending on it for seventy-five years. No more convincing proof can be given than the testimony of Mrs. Benson, who is only one of thousands of women to whom Wine of Cardui has brought a permanent cure. Many cases of miscarriage—that trouble which robs mothers of their hopes—have been avoided by timely use of the Wine. You are asked to try Wine of Cardui and Theodore's Black-Draught, its companion medicine. Nine out of ten cases of female trouble, barrenness included, yield to them. All druggists sell $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui.

Wanderfoot, Ark., April 2, 1900.

Last May I had a miscarriage, which was followed by flooding. I read your Almanac and my husband got me a bottle of Wine of Cardui and it stopped my flooding and restored my fallen womb to its place. Now I am cured after taking three bottles and have another to take which I got this morning. I am expecting to become a mother and Wine of Cardui will be my doctor.

THE COLLEGE
WINS AGAIN

Normal Basket Ball Team Defeated by a Close Score.

Yesterday afternoon the College basket ball team was again victorious over the Normal girls, but the score was about as close as it could be and not tie.

As before, the game was played in the gymnasium. The crowd was small and enthusiasm at a low ebb, until near the end of the match, when the college yell was given once or twice.

The line-up was the same as at the first game of the series. Miss Henry and Miss Becker officiated respectively as referee and umpire.

In the first half neither team had much the better of the play, the score being 6 to 6. Two field goals were made by Miss Scott and one by Miss Bradshaw for the Normals. Miss Kr-ger made two field goals and a goal on a foul for the College, and Miss Nash also scored a point on a foul.

The first part of the second half was very one sided. The College quickly made six points, five of which were scored by Miss Nash and one by Miss Lyle.

Then the Normals rallied and kept possession of the pluckin almost uninterruptedly. Five points were made by Miss Lyle, making the score for the game: College 12, Normal 11.

Entertainment at the M. E. Church.

The choir of the M. E. church gave a literary, musical and gastronomical entertainment last evening. Following was the program:

Vocal solo, Ralph Stubbs; song, Masters, Merrill, Jamison, Phelps and Smith; recitation, Beulah Herschler; solo, Sadie Brandon; instrumental solo, Mr. Chamberlain; recitation, F.

A. McQuarrie; solo, Lester Merrill;

Following this refreshments were served and an hour spent in conversation.

Enforcing an Old Ordinance.

Quite a procession wended its way yesterday to the court house. Between a dozen and a score of women were in line. Their business was with the county clerk, who enrolled each of them, taking names and addresses. This registration was made as the result of District Attorney Pike digging up a moth-eaten city ordinance requiring women of the ten-derloin to register and then devote their entire time at the place given as their residence. The intent of this ordinance is obvious.

Another Instance Where a Vacillating Scribe Lampoons Himself.

Since what time has the editor of the Gazette acquired such an aversion toward the "6011"? Prior to the removal of that paper to the classic parlors of First street it sang its tune in a different key. In fact, not so many months ago as to be difficult to remember, there appeared an item in the Gazette headed by that magical number in bold black type. It called upon the Vigilantes to meet at the usual time and place, which meetings have rarely taken place except as forerunners of public action. The truth of the whole matter is that the silly article in last night's paper was not an expression of editorial opinion, because opinions are begotten of thought and judgment. The writer composed the item at the dictation of some one to whom the JOURNAL notice of yesterday morning was particularly disagreeable. Mr. Bragg wrote (and a satisfied smile crept over the face of the dictator): "Constable Keeper says the officers are perfectly equal to the task of keeping the tenderloin district as orderly as a tenderloin steak cooked well done."

The "satisfied smile" above mentioned has become epidemic and audible.
